How your money has helped people affected by Typhoon Haiyan Typhoon Haiyan, which hit the Philippines on 8 November 2013, tearing apart the communities of 14 million people and leaving at least five million homeless. CAFOD has helped tens of thousands of families to rebuild their lives in the months since the typhoon, supporting local priests and church volunteers in providing food packs and shelter kits, emergency hygiene kits to help prevent the spread of disease, creating 'cash-for-work' schemes which have employed people to clear debris in exchange for money to buy food and pay for repairs to their homes, and supplying tools, seeds and training to thousands of farmers whose crops were destroyed. CAFOD will now work with local communities to build schools and homes designed to offer extra protection against future typhoons. Fr Edwin Gariguez, of CAFOD's partner Caritas Philippines, said: "We thank the Catholic community of England and Wales for their magnanimous expression of solidarity. We send you our sincerest gratitude, on behalf of the people we serve."
